Hearth and home are beckoning beacons during the months of January and February. After the dizzying swirl of holiday activities, frigid temperatures offer a good excuse to remain housebound and inactive. Warm robes are called for much of the time, but women do not abandon their passion for glamorous lingerie just because of the weather. You'll find feminine frills aplenty. Our cover girl, Park Morgan, for instance, favors a lace peignoir instead of a terry wrap. Our tips for surviving winter: drink plenty of orange juice and stay warm with Playboy's Book of Lingerie.

Cover girl Park Morgan (above, right and overleaf) was a student when she was introduced to PLAYBOY's readers (Girls of the Big Ten, October 1991). Since then, she has modeled (hates posing in a bathing suit in forty-degree weather), traveled around the world (we recently photographed her in Hawaii) and tried many new things (she's studying tae kwon do). She's more sophisticated now, but there still are a few cotton items among the silks in her lingerie drawers.

A winter's tale is being told by this dark-haired trio. Rebecca Ferratti's story (left) begins in the Orient, the origin of fabulously embroidered silks. Stephanie Adams' romantic theme (above) takes place in a golden setting. And while there's no mystery about Pia Reyes (below), contemplating her beauty may keep you up all night.

When the party season begins to wane, there's time for reading and intimate dinners. In a petite bra and bobby socks, Laurie Carr (above) checks up on her portfolio. Kristine Rose (right), elegant in a chiffon wrap, tests the wine and declares it's perfect for tonight's cassoulet.

Jacqueline Tavaréz (left), in an ensemble of incredible delicacy, has loving thoughts about the person who sent long-stemmed roses to match her lingerie. Amy Weber (above) brings out her best in a white lace cami.

A ticklish affair is assured when silk and satin mingle with an assortment of feathers. Wendy Christine (above) and her mirror image have fun with marabou. Renée Tenison (right) feels playful in a decorated thong. Tizer Bailey (far right) evokes the golden age of the silver screen, as Suzi Simpson (overleaf) evokes golden reveries.

Some women get the new year off to a dazzling start with bright, shiny intimate wear, and the latest in glitz comes from a liberal use of sequins. Keisha Case (left) retreats to the sun room to try on a glittering teddy. Kimberly Paul (above) beguiles in a thong augmented with brilliants.

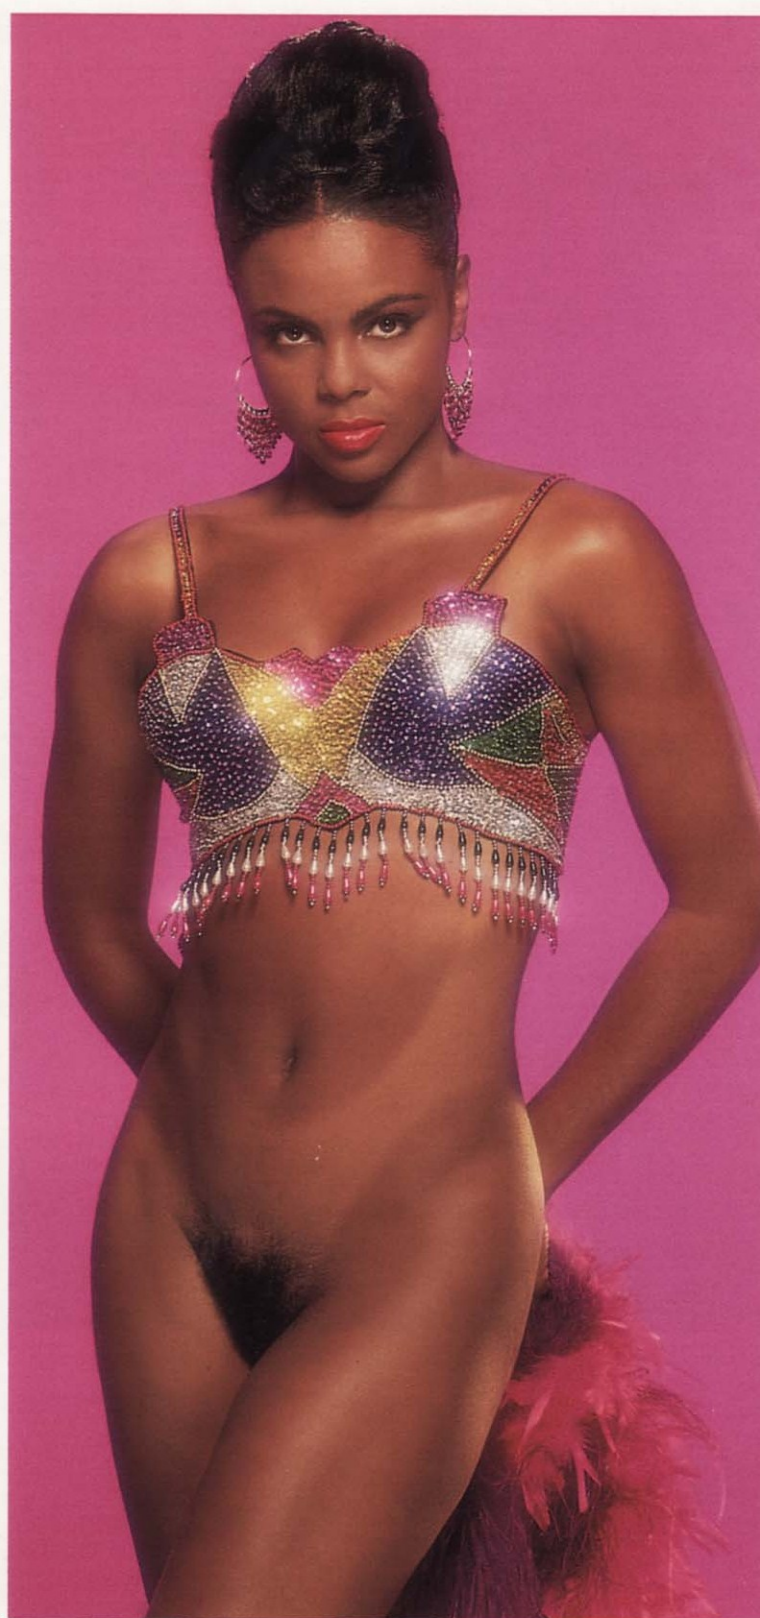

It just doesn't get much more festive than this: In a riot of color and a jeweled bustier, Cynthia Kaye (below) is a heart-stopping vision. And then Laura LeCher (right) steps forward, adorned in a show-stopping ensemble that is deserving of curtain calls.

Atmosphere begins with a thought, and the right lingerie. Petra Verkaik (left) creates an aura in perfectly matched intimate wear. Melanie Jacklin (above) reclines on a gilt-edged couch in dainty, beribboned apparel. Kristi Ducati (below) explores the joy of being. Sharleene Woodsford (overleaf) is adorable in organza ruffles.

It should be clear by now that in lingerie circles anything goes. Carrie Jean Yazel (above) combines a terra-cotta vest with a ruffled bikini, giving her the edge in any game. Brittney Raché (right) has a closet full of the latest fashions, including this daring black vinyl and silk number.

Susie Scott (left), Tera Tabrizi (above left) and Lorissa McComas (above right) enjoy pursuing various cold-weather hobbies. Susie studies antiques in a slate bra. Tera, in a luscious slip, has a passion for chess. Sitting around in minimal clothing and watching adventure movies occupies Lorissa. Heather Lacny (overleaf), in a delphinium bra, is up early to catch the effect of dawn's early light on her collection of green and blue glass.

Sandra Yale (above) has no plans for the day, so she's content to while it away in a gorgeous nightgown. Debra Jo Fondren (below), in the barest pink teddy, tires herself out talking to friends on the phone. Kathryn Shannon (right) looks her sultriest in the mellow glow of subdued lighting, her body encased in a spandex slip.

You won't find this in GQ, but Brittany McCrena (above left) thinks a conservative tie with silk boxers is great fun. Tammara Wheeler (above right) pairs pewter hose with a geranium garter belt and adds a bolo tie for a humorous touch. Ava Fabian (right) listens attentively to old radio epics in a tobacco-hued bra and G-string.

Restless in long, lingering January, Tina Bockrath (far left), Ruth Guerri (left) and Patricia Ford (above) are eager for the deep freeze to end. Tina reads about the masters in her chilly studio. Ruth tries to stay comfortable without adding clothing. Patricia, back from cross-country skiing, stays close to the fireplace.

Kim Egler captures the essence of dalliance as she luxuriates in rosebud pink amid a fanciful floral environment. Our guess is she's resting after a round of holiday parties.

Jeannie Hallaway (above and below) resembles a nature sprite. She surrounds herself with earthy brown tones, a downy comforter and soft fabrics, adds a silken camisole, and enjoys a sensuous afternoon. Jill Terashita (right) is having a good lingerie day. She has a preference for body-hugging bodysuits and oversized robes.

Samantha Cox (left), in a comprehensive net catsuit, has a lot of questions. If there's anything she doesn't know about intimate wear, she might consult Brittany York (above). Shannon Rae (overleaf) is in a pensive mood, looking dangerously gorgeous.

When a snowstorm prevents a visit to the health club, this threesome exercises at home. Isabelle Fortea (above) wears her bright bikini for those terrible tummy crunches. Teresa Langley (below) removes a floral bra after completing an upper body workout. Neriah Davis (right) loves to cool down with a few stretches in a G-string.

Winter wear includes a varied assortment of leg coverings, and clever women do not sacrifice glamour for warmth. Nichola Cordey (left) wears provocative net pantyhose with seams. Lisa Saxton (above left) ruminates by the fire in thigh-highs. Shelia (above right) dresses efficiently in a catsuit that fits smoothly under everything.

Applause, applause for Renée Tenison (left) in a bra and bikini of sunny hues, a reminder that summer will return in the not-too-distant future. Barbara Moore (above) also deserves the spotlight for choosing an exciting and seductive gown to awaken our senses.

Heather Hayes (above), Kim De Wit (below) and Melissa Bill (right) plan winter vacations. Heather tries on a new bikini and votes for the Caribbean. Kim, in vibrant lace, wants to ski Gstaad. Melissa, in a tie-front cami, is on her way to Rio. Wearing ooh-la-la red, Christina Leardini (overleaf) arrives in the city of lights and love.

In elaborately embroidered heirloom lingerie, Saskia Linssen (left) mounts a fanciful steed and sits still for the portrait painter. Pia Reyes (above) poses prettily, a picture that will remain in the mind long after the subject has gone. Tracey Elvik (below) and her transparent tap pants certainly should be recorded for posterity.

Two sides of the same coin: beautiful Kim Egler (above) opens the curtain on a white lace bra, and beautiful Kerri Hoskins (right) turns away in a black garment. If you tossed a quarter in the air and called either heads or tails, there is no way you could lose when these are the choices.

Boxers never looked so good. Brandi Downs (left) and her friends have added them to their wardrobes. Brandi's came straight out of the boy's department and needs a little bit of adjusting, but what the heck. Lora Scott (above) has a modified version that's made with tiny pleats.

Despite the inclement weather, sometimes you need to leave the house. Karen Foster (above) delays as long as she can before putting on outerwear. Kristin Herold (below) has made a decision about what to wear on her head. Laura Slowinski (right) starts with a bustier and Kimberly Paul (overleaf) finishes putting on her teddy.

Saint Valentine created a special day to honor lovers everywhere. Or maybe it was the candy makers. At any rate, Alicia Sanchez (left) acknowledges the holiday with pale pink panties. Katharine Gorzel (above left) wears an adorable bra-and-panty set. Wendy Christine (above right) is a treat in an old-fashioned granny nightie.
